HUSSEIN CALLS OFF VISIT TO LONDON

ON (AP). — King Hussein has called off a provocation in London after his visit because undisclosed pollsters require his early return to Amman, diplomatic officials said yesterday.

There was no explanation available of the king's decision, but Jordanian sources said a suggestion of a crisis in this month, the British Foreign Minister, Mr. James Callaghan, had indicated that Hussein would be stopping in the Arab world before returning to his way home from the Jordanian Embassy in London yesterday that Hussein was in plans for a London stop.

The king will be flying home from the U.S. in about a week, a spokesman said.

Arab Affairs Reporter adds: Hussein's absence, a sensitive behind King Hussein's return home directly to the U.S. remained unclear last since there have been so to developments in the Middle

Israel queries Italy on release of Arab terrorists

By DAVID LANDAU
an Post Diplomatic Correspondent

Israel Embassy in Rome has the Italian Foreign Ministry clarification of why two terrorists who tried to blow up an El Al plane were freed by Italy on Tuesday.

The Israeli Government is acting on information from the Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman said last night.

El Al, 24, from Iran, and Mohammed Hashem, 28, from Jordan, were arrested in Amman suspicion of giving two passengers a record-player with explosives. It exploded aboard but caused little damage.

The magistrate freed the two without bail under the "provisional" clause in Italian law that Rome's Regina Coeli prison on Tuesday.

Israel's protest in the Italian ambassador to the Foreign Ministry was by the head of one of the Italian departments, Nissim, to be asked for the same.

Official sources yesterday expressed grave concern and said at the release of the two terrorists who had tried to blow up an El Al plane.

The two were world-famous, who had planned the murder of scores of innocent people. It was only through precautions that the record was stored in the plane's

Kissinger, Chou talk for 3½ hours

HONGKONG (UPI). — U.S. presidential adviser Henry Kissinger conferred with Premier Chou En-lai for 3½ hours yesterday at the start of three days of talks with Chinese leaders, White House sources said.

Dr. Kissinger arrived in China from Hongkong where he rested after four days of consultations in Hanoi with North Vietnam leaders.

According to the White House, those sitting in on the meeting between Kissinger and Chou were Alfred Jenks, State Department Asian expert, and John Holdridge of the National Security Council.

Chou's Chinese side, and Vice-Minister Chiao Kuan-hua on the Chinese side.

Rogers says U.S. more active on Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP). — U.S. Secretary of State William Rogers said yesterday the U.S. government has "increased its activity" on the Middle East recently and "we will do more in the weeks ahead."

"We have been, we are and will be very active," Rogers told a news conference in which he also dealt with post-war U.S. aid to North Vietnam, the expected cease-fire in Laos, and other issues.

The U.S. had held discussions with Soviet officials on the Middle East, Rogers said, and he had discussed the Soviet Ambassador and Foreign Minister in an effort to get peace talks started.

The U.S. had been in contact with Egypt through various channels and would do what it could to get the parties to negotiate, he said.

Rogers said the greater U.S. activity in the Middle East does not mean that the Administration has some new plan, or would impose one on the Arabs and Israel.

"That is not what we have in mind at all," he said.

He deplored that the Middle East is the "single area where there are no discussions" between the two sides. "I hope this will change," he said.

Rogers said that in his view the U.S. should be reopening the Suez Canal would be the "most sensible way to start negotiations leading to a settlement."

Rogers acknowledged that while Israel has agreed to negotiate the opening of the Canal, "Egypt remains uninterested. We have attempted to communicate to Egypt our ideas. I do not insist that this is the best solution, but I cannot find a better one."

Mr. Rogers said he believed some progress in negotiations between Egypt and Israel would be necessary before separate talks between Jordan and Israel could get underway. But he did not want to preclude the possibility of "parallel talks," in which Jerusalem would negotiate with Cairo and Amman at the same time.

Asked whether the U.S. fuel shortage would affect policy towards the Middle East, Mr. Rogers said the U.S. would not change its attitudes and thinking because of the energy crisis. But, he said, it was important that the United States have good relations with the Arab countries for a number of reasons.

In his wide-ranging comments Mr. Rogers also said there will be difficulty in getting Congress to pass postwar U.S. aid to North Vietnam. But he predicted the legislators would eventually approve peace-time reconstruction assistance for all Indochina.

The alleged violations of the Vietnam cease-fire currently being reported do not mean a breakdown of the peace accords, he said. "We see no indication that any party is attempting to scuttle the peace agreement or is attempting to undermine it so it won't take effect."

U.S. and Cuba sign pact to curb hijackings

WASHINGTON (AP). — Secretary of State William Rogers yesterday signed an agreement with Cuba aimed at curbing hijacking of airplanes and ships. The agreement was to be signed simultaneously in Havana.

Mr. Rogers signed the agreement in his office in the presence of Jaroslav Zantovsky, Minister of the Czechoslovakian Embassy in Washington.

The agreement provides for the prosecution or extradition "of any person who hereafter seizes, removes, appropriates or diverts from its normal route or activities an aircraft or vessel registered under the laws of one of the parties and brings it to the territory of the other party."

The person charged with hijacking will be tried "for the offence punishable by the most severe penalty according to the circumstances and the seriousness of the acts."

If there are no punishments under existing laws, "the party in question shall be obligated, except in the case of minor offences, to return the persons who have committed such acts... to the territory of the other party to be tried by its courts in conformity with its laws."

The American text was addressed to the Czechoslovakian Embassy which represents Cuban interests in Washington in the absence of diplomatic relations between the U.S. and Cuba.

Another section of the document, which constitutes an executive agreement and does not require U.S. Senate approval, provides that each party "shall try with a view to severe punishment" any person who conspires to hijack an aircraft or vessel coming from or going to the territory of the other.

The agreement goes into effect immediately and will be effective for five years. It is not retroactive.

U.S. steps up Laos bombing

WASHINGTON (AP). — U.S. warplanes have sharply escalated their bombing of Communist forces in Laos "because of increased enemy activity" and further appeals for help from the Royal Lao government, the U.S. Defense Department announced yesterday.

Major Gen. Daniel James, a top Pentagon spokesman, said U.S. warplanes this week have been flying an average of about 380 sorties (a single flight by a single plane) a day over Laos. This is an increase of about 100 a day over last week.

He acknowledged that U.S. operations also were flown on Wednesday in Cambodia, saying that they were "at a very low level," amounting to "a few tens of sorties."

French minister throws doubts on Concorde

PARIS (AP). — French Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing last night threw the first official doubts on the survival of the Franco-British supersonic airliner Concorde, in trouble after rejection by American and world airlines.

In a debate with Socialist leader Francois Mitterrand, Giscard d'Estaing said the French government "is studying the survival of this operation."

Egypt Mig-21 downed over Gulf of Suez

By HURSH GOODMAN, Jerusalem Post Military Correspondent

Israeli planes shot down an Egyptian Mig-21 over the Gulf of Suez yesterday morning, the military spokesman announced yesterday. All Israeli planes returned safely to base, he said.

The incident occurred shortly before 11 a.m., when Israeli planes were on a routine patrol over the Gulf of Suez. Egyptian planes were sent up to intercept the patrol, but retreated soon after a dogfight developed. The Mig, hit by Israeli fire, fell into the Gulf. The pilot did not parachute, and is thought to have gone down with his plane.

Syrians fire missiles at Israel forces on Golan

Jerusalem Post Military Correspondent

The Syrians yesterday fired a volley of Sagger anti-tank missiles at Israeli forces stationed near Nahal Golan on the Golan Heights. There were no Israeli casualties and no damage was caused. Fire was returned.

This was the first reported incident along the Syrian frontier since February 8 when terrorists attacked an Israeli patrol with bazookas, and the first clash with the Syrian army in over six weeks.

The Sagger is the most compact of the three anti-tank missiles in the Soviet arsenal, and until recently it was thought to be in use only in Warsaw Pact countries.

The small, wire-guided missile was first displayed by the Soviets in 1965. Housing a hollow-charge warhead, it is powered by a solid propellant rocket motor and by Nato ratings is thought to be potentially highly effective against most tanks.

It is now known that both Syria and Egypt have been supplied with the missiles. They are thought to have arrived in Syria during the recent series of Arab League conferences held in Cairo. At the talks, both Syria and Libya issued blistering statements, denouncing the Egyptians for accepting the post-1967 status quo without offering even symbolic resistance.

It is thought that Egypt decided to attack the Air Force patrol, rather than open fire along the Suez Canal, in the hope that a "legitimate" Egyptian act in the defence of the country's air space would not give Israel reason for reprisal.

R.A.F. urged to adopt Israel methods

By DAVID LENNON
Jerusalem Post Correspondent

LONDON. — The Israel Air Force has almost as many aircraft as Britain's Royal Air Force, and operates them with only 10 per cent of the R.A.F.'s permanent staff, according to a new study of Britain's military needs to be published today.

Israel's manpower savings are made through a "very advanced system of reserve liability and conscription," the study, made by the Conservative Party's parliamentary defence committee notes.

This use of reserve forces leads the authors, headed by Sir John Peel, to recommend that the British Army should investigate "the feasibility of relying on reserve forces on similar lines to those of Israel."

While recommending that the size of Britain's standing army of 872,000 regulars be maintained, the report advocates strengthening the effective reserve force of 130,000 along the pattern of Switzerland and Israel.

Sharp rise in C-o-L index

Jerusalem Post Reporter

The cost-of-living index shot up by 2.7 points (1.9 per cent) last month, the Central Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday. That means that on the first of this month, the index stood at 145.5 points, compared with 142.8 exactly 50 days earlier.

The Bureau provided the following breakdown of the index's components, to indicate January price trends in relation to their levels at the end of December 1972:

- Fruits and vegetables — fresh fruit rose by 3.9 per cent, and fresh vegetables, by 15.5. The most salient price changes in the latter category were eggplant, 112.1 per cent higher than at the end of December, and tomatoes, 19.2 per cent higher.
- Groceries and meats — prices in this class rose by one per cent, on the average. The most radical moves were made by honey (up 12.6 per cent) and rice (up 3.3).
- Housing — prices rose 3.7 per cent above those of a month earlier. The figure reflects both sales of flats and "key money" charges.
- Home furnishings — this class rose by an average of 2.6 per cent. Washing machines were up 4.3 per cent; furniture, 3.3; sheets and towels, 3.5; curtains and rugs, 4.1; and refrigerators, 1.5 per cent.
- Clothing and shoes — a downward trend was noted here, due to end-of-season sales at the end of January. Clothing generally fell 1.6 per cent, with outerwear falling by 3.2 per cent. Shoes were 0.4 lower in price.

The wholesale price index of locally manufactured goods rose by 2.2 per cent in January, and the construction price index, by 4.4.

Arraignment set for March 11 27 suspects in Jewish-Arab spy ring jailed till trial

Jerusalem Post Staff

HAIFA. — All 33 suspects in the Arab-Jewish espionage ring uncovered last December have now been formally indicted and remanded in custody until the end of the legal proceedings against them. Yesterday, a District Court judge ordered the detention of 27 suspects, including four Jews. The other six accused — the alleged ringleaders — are already on trial.

After ordering the 27 men remanded in custody until after their trial, Judge Emanuel Slonim set the dates for the beginning of their trials.

One of the suspects — Mahmud Hawari, 40, of Tarsheha, accused of failing to inform the authorities although he knew of the existence of the spy ring — will be tried separately, beginning on March 6. The trial of the remaining 26 will begin on March 11, with the arraignment and filing of pleas.

Yesterday's group of 27 suspects were brought to court under heavy guard in four separate groups, handcuffed in pairs. The procedure started at 8.30 a.m., with the arrival in court of the first group of 13, and lasted until nearly 2 p.m.

The first group included three Jews — David Kupfer, 26, of Bat Yam; Yehzekel Cohen, 30, of Bnei Brak; and Mali Lerman, 27, of Kiron. They spoke freely with reporters in the courtroom and conceded that the conditions of their detention were not as bad as some had claimed at first (Rami Livneh had claimed — through his father, Rakah Knesset Member Abraham Levenbraun — that he had been tortured with electric shock). They said they had been allowed to play football and had occasionally received newspapers.

The only one of the 13 suspects in this first group who was not represented by a lawyer was Cohen, who was allegedly given the job of heading a Tel Aviv cell of the pro-Syrian spy ring. Judge Slonim said he had until March 11 — the date set for the beginning of the trial — to get himself a lawyer, or the court would appoint one.

The second group of suspects was brought in about 10 a.m. and included Livneh, 27, of Tel Aviv (Livneh's father, Mr. Levenbraun, was among the few spectators in the courtroom yesterday). The rest of the suspects followed about noon, except for Hawari, who was indicted and remanded separately, after all the others.

In the case of all 27 the judge accepted the request of Assistant District Attorney Avigdor David to remand the suspects until the completion of the legal proceedings against them.

Felicia Langer, counsel for several of the accused, had opposed the remand and asked that her clients be released on bail. She argued that she had grounds for assuming her clients would be acquitted and claimed the prosecution had not detailed the charges against them. But Judge Slonim asked her to reconsider her request and finally remarked that the accused were charged with extremely serious offences against State security — not with run-of-the-mill crimes.

Nine of the suspects were also indicted yesterday (all the others have been indicted in groups over the past few weeks). They were Yusef Nasser, 23, Hassan Asala, 24, and Orner Asala, 25, of Arraba; Ali Samaniya, 23, of Arab e-Samaniya; Mahmud Dassaoui, 45, of Taba; Nadim Sultan, 27, of Tira; Attuf Hamada, 23, of Shfar'am; Haili Kassis, 31, of Haifa; and Hanna Sabit, 30, of Tarsheha. They were charged with membership in an illegal organization, conspiring to harm State security, aiding the enemy in its war against Israel and covering up offences of which they had knowledge.

The six suspects in the spy ring whose trial has already begun are Dan Vered, 23, of Tel Aviv; Ehud Advi, 26, of Gan Shmuel; Daoud Turki, 45, of Haifa; Anis Karawi, 23, of Shfar'am; Subhi Na'arazi, 28, of Basmat Tivon; and Simon Hadad, 34, of Idellon. They were arraigned on February 11. The trial proper starts on February 25.)

'Or' editor under fire

Jerusalem Post Political Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The editor of the Labour Party's weekly magazine "Or," David Shaham, yesterday rejected charges he was distorting Party policy and using the magazine for a campaign against Defence Minister Moshe Dayan. Rafi representatives, who recently resigned from the magazine's editorial board, demanded at a meeting of the Party Leadership Bureau here yesterday that the Party either replace Mr. Shaham as editor or close down the magazine. Mr. Shaham told the debate, which was boycotted by the Bureau's Rafi members, that a Party magazine had the right to criticize and shape party policy and that Mr. Dayan had refused him an interview.

Mr. Shaham's editorial policy was defended by editorial board members Nathan Ra'anan and Hillel Dantzig (both Mapai) and Nathan Nevo (Ahdut Ha'avoda), who said he reflected majority opinion in the party.

In this week's issue of "Or" Mr. Shaham calls for "the renewal of the partition of the Land of Israel." He also comes out strongly against the Party's election platform commitment to Jewish settlement in the territories. He describes this line as "endangering our national survival."

The Leadership Bureau will meet again next week to take a final decision on the magazine's future.

Government hospitals to strike

Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The service and administrative staff of the country's government hospitals are going out on strike at 6 a.m. on Tuesday, for an indefinite period, their national works committee decided yesterday. The strike was called to protest the Government's failure to implement the findings of the Padeh Committee, which recommended equalizing pay and conditions at government hospitals to those in Kupat Holim hospitals.

On January 4 the Government promised that a committee would be set up within a month to work out details of the Padeh recommendations and that arbitrators would be appointed for cases in dispute. Neither of these things was done, a spokesman for the workers said yesterday.

SAFAD HONOUR FOR BEGIN

Jerusalem Post Reporter

SAFAD. — Herut leader Menahem Begin defeated Prime Minister Golda Meir here last night — for the prize of who will be an honorary citizen of the Galilee mountain town. When the ruling Gahal-Religious List-State List coalition proposed the honour for Mr. Begin at yesterday's council meeting, the lone Alignment member present protested that courtesy demanded that the Prime Minister be first. He was steamrollered 5 votes to 1.

The award will be made on Safad Liberation Day later this year.

Mrs. Meir, Dayan tour Bedek

LYDDA. — Prime Minister Golda Meir, completing a tour of Israel Aircraft Industries here yesterday, declared that "even though we (Israel) aren't among the great powers, there are dozens of countries bigger than we are that aren't doing what we are doing."

Mrs. Meir was speaking to an audience of 10,000 aviation workers after touring the installations with Defence Minister Moshe Dayan.

Land reclaimed for Haifa port

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — The port management has completed the reclamation from the sea of 300 dunams of land at the eastern end of the port along the Shemen beach.

Dredging work lasted two years at a cost of IL3.5m., which included compensation for the tenants of the beach shacks and huts who were moved out to make room for port installations.

Nesher workers won't load cement over quarry issue

By YA'ACOV ARDON

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — The 400 workers, engineers and staff of the Nesher cement works yesterday declared an embargo on the delivery of 2,000 50-kg. bags from the Nesher plant compound here. They halted the deliveries in protest against what they described as the failure of Development Minister Haim Gvati to hear their side of the dispute on the limestone quarry extension into the National Park terrain on Mt. Carmel.

The Nesher workers say they had been promised a hearing by Mr. Gvati before any decision is taken. He was abroad when they asked for a meeting with him and were told it would take place when he returned.

On Wednesday, they had learned from the radio and TV that the ministerial economic committee was to hold a decisive session yesterday, the day after the Knesset debate on the subject. Labour Council Secretary Eliezer Molk has tried to dissuade the Nesher committee from taking any drastic steps, but plea was ignored.

(However, neither the ministerial committee nor Mr. Gvati had held any meetings of the issue in day, their respective spokesmen told The Post night.)

In solidarity with the Nesher men, the 50 workers at Ramle suspended work for two days, expecting that the Nesher shop committee will allow any deliveries to be made until they are satisfied. Production will not be affected and technically continue for about a week before the accumulation of cement in the storage sheds will force a suspension of at least part of the production.

The Haifa plant turns out 700,000 tons of cement annually, about half of the country's output. A million tons of cement must be imported this year and as long as the present building boom continues local production must be supplemented by imports until the Hartuv project is put into service. Manufacture in Israel is a joint monopoly of Koor and Cial companies.

Zionist Council urged to vote Absorption Ministry abolition

Jerusalem Post Reporter

A proposal to abolish the Absorption Ministry was made yesterday at the final session of the Zionist General Council.

The proposal, made in the Council's Aliya Committee, declared that duplication in the handling of immigration and absorption between the Ministry and the Jewish Agency was harmful to the interests of aliya. Immigration and absorption are one and therefore should not be separated," the resolution stated.

It called for absorption to be made once again the responsibility of the Jewish Agency which handled it until the creation of the Absorption Ministry five years ago.

The committee proposed, however, that policies regarding population dispersion and social and economic absorption should remain the province of the Israel Government. As of press time, the Council plenary had not voted on the proposal.

Another controversial subject being considered by the plenary was a Constitution Committee proposal that would oblige the Zionist Organization of America to join the Zionist Federation if it would be affiliated with the World Zionist Organization. The Z.O.A. has been resisting such a move.

The Council called for continued experiments with new types of settlements based on industry, workshops and services in order to draw immigrants to rural areas, to meet the needs of the second generation of village youth and "to create communities of a homogeneous social character."

A minority proposal was submitted by David Yutan of the World Union of General Zionists for the Zionist Organization to publish "a detailed programme of rural and urban settlement in the liberated settlements of Eretz Yisrael and to call upon Jewish youth in the Diaspora to settle one of the places in the programme."

The majority resolution called for youth in Israel and the Diaspora and new immigrants to "take part in the settlement process in all parts of Israel." The Zionist Organization was urged to give particular attention to housing for the younger generation in mohevim populated by large families.

The Council called upon East Germany "to fulfill its moral obligation to the victims of Nazi crimes" by providing reparations. It also urged East Germany to take a more balanced attitude towards the Middle East dispute.

The Council called upon international organizations to exert pressure on the Government of Iraq for an unambiguous reply on the fate of the Smuggled mouth organs and melodicas are "flooding the market," a leading Tel Aviv importer of musical instruments charged yesterday.

Uri Sommerfeld, operator of Sommerfeld Music Centre, asked the Treasury's Customs and Excise Department to crack down on the illegal importation of the instruments, which he said come from Mainland China and East Germany — "two countries which do not maintain commercial relations with Israel."

Mr. Sommerfeld gave the authorities samples of the items as well as photocopies of sales slips from shops that have been selling them.

Surrenders himself as terrorist

HEBRON. — The alleged leader of a Hebron area terrorist cell has given himself up to the security forces, it was announced here yesterday. The man, Yussuf Hassan Awadeh, turned himself over to Mayor Muhammad Mussa Omar of Dura village, near Hebron.

He is said to have led a subversive group active in the Hebron hills during the last two years. The other members of the cells were picked up earlier.

The security forces also announced that in the last two days they have arrested seven persons on the West Bank in connection with the attempt on Monday to fire-bomb the Bank Leumi branch in Nablus.

UPI reports from Amman that Jordanian security authorities have arrested a number of persons accused of attempting sabotage activities in the country, according to official sources.

"During the past few days, security authorities arrested a number of people who had infiltrated into Jordan with the aim of carrying out acts harmful to the security of the state," an Interior Ministry statement said.

The authorities confiscated weapons and documents from those detained, the statement said.

It did not clarify where the infiltrators had come from or how many they were, but said they were referred to the judicial authorities for investigation.

SHOPPING SPREE

PALM BEACH, Florida (AP). — Jordan's Queen Alia left the closely guarded compound where she and King Hussein are vacationing for a shopping spree on Wednesday at the Jordan Marsh department store.

"She's really a doll," said a clerk who helped the 24-year-old queen pick out $400 worth of linen. "I've waited on a lot of people here before and she was about the nicest."

Queen Alia, a former student at Hunter College in New York, was accompanied on her second shopping expedition this week by three security men.

The department store chain this week is sponsoring "Shalom, shalom," a series of cultural events in honour of Israel's 25th anniversary.

In some of its south Florida outlets, "But not in Palm Beach," a spokesman for Jordan Marsh emphasized.

U.S. and China planning alliance, Soviets charge

LONDON (UPI). — The Soviets charged yesterday "the ground is being prepared for an American-Chinese alliance."

The charge was contained in an appraisal of the Chinese position published in "Soviet Weekly," the official Soviet-English language publication in Britain. It coincided with presidential adviser Henry Kissinger's current Peking visit.

"Under a smokescreen of clamour about alleged Russian menace and allegations that the Soviet Union is trying to engineer an anti-Chinese bloc, the ground is being prepared for an American-Chinese alliance," "Soviet Weekly" said.

Peking, wanting "Uncle Sam to stay in Asia," has had little to say lately about the presence of American troops in Asia, it said.

Western diplomats in China yesterday coincidentally drew attention to the fact that the New China News Agency in Peking reported without comment on Wednesday the Pentagon's announcement that the headquarters of all American air operations in Southeast Asia will be transferred to Thailand.

They said while China wants the Americans out of Asia, she does not cherish "at this stage" the creation of a power vacuum there which would lay open the area to advancing Soviet influence.

Reflecting Moscow's uneasiness over any closer Sino-American rapprochement, "Soviet Weekly" said the communists issued after President Nixon's Peking visit last year showed there was an understanding between them.

"In plain terms, that means an American-Chinese condominium in Southeast Asia, based on China's economic and cultural interests and the U.S.'s military and political domination," it said.

"The Chinese leaders seem to prefer 'temporary' American presence, to curb what they consider an undesirable tendency toward national independence," it added.

The weekly said China is using the alleged threat of the Russian menace to justify her strategy and claims that Moscow is trying to create an anti-Chinese bloc.

Peking is known to consider current Soviet efforts to engineer a Moscow-led collective security alignment in Asia as a deliberate move to isolate China. But Soviet efforts in that direction so far have met with little concrete response.

Tito sends Pope Middle East letter

VATICAN CITY (UPI). — President Tito of Yugoslavia has sent a message to Pope Paul VI about the Middle East, Vatican press spokesman Federico Alessandrini said yesterday.

The personal message dealt with "aspirations for peace in the Middle East question," he said.

AGENCY. — The West German news agency DPA said yesterday it had received permission to open a permanent office in East Berlin, the first West German press organization authorized by the East German Government to do so.

Kuwait and India condemn Israel

KUWAIT (Reuters). — Kuwait and India have agreed that "the dangerous situation in West Asia arising from Israeli aggression" seriously threatens world peace and security, the two countries said in a joint communiqué yesterday.

The communiqué followed discussions here between the Kuwait government and an Indian delegation headed by Foreign Minister Swaran Singh.

Shanghai now largest city

UNITED NATIONS (UPI). — The survey said Peking, with 7,570,000 inhabitants, is fourth in population, followed by London, Moscow, Bombay, Seoul, Sao Paulo and Cairo.

The yearbook put women ahead of men in most countries as far as life expectancy is concerned. Only in Sweden, Norway, Iceland, the Netherlands and Denmark can men expect to reach age 70.

Sweden has the highest life span expectancy for both sexes: 76.5 years for women and 71.9 for men.

Pakistan, Jordan, Cambodia, India, Sri Lanka (Ceylon) Upper Volta and Nigeria were the only countries where men outlived women. In the West African nation of Gabon, the life expectancy for men is 25 and 45 for women.

The yearbook said Tokyo ranks second as the most populous city with 8,841,000 persons. New York is third with 7,895,000, but New York suburbs were included, it would rank as what the U.N. called "The largest urban agglomeration on record," with 11,972,000 persons.

Bhutto seizes power in warring province

RAWALPINDI (Reuters). — President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan yesterday imposed presidential rule in the troubled province of Baluchistan after dismissing the governor and removing the council of ministers.

A proclamation from the president said Mr. Bhutto's order would remain in force for 30 days. The president also dismissed another governor, in the North West Frontier province.

Dismissal of the governors is seen here as a direct consequence of the dramatic discovery last weekend of a large arms cache at the Iraqi Embassy in the Pakistani capital.

Allegations of an anti-state conspiracy and gun running in the country have been freely voiced by central government ministers in the highly-charged political atmosphere of the last few days.

Federal forces were sent to Baluchistan recently to deal with "marauding tribesmen."

Barber yesterday the President appointed new governors in Baluchistan and North West Frontier province.

The previous governors were dismissed "in the larger interest of the nation," according to an official announcement.

Mr. Bhutto told the governors in identical letters: "Recent developments in the country make it imperative that I have a governor in whom I have full confidence and who faithfully carries out my directions."

Both men are leaders of the pro-Moscow National Awami Party which is opposed to President Bhutto's Pakistan Peoples Party.

Observers here said a head-on confrontation between the two parties would now appear inevitable. Authoritative sources here said troops are guarding sensitive installations, including the radio station, state bank, telegraph and post offices and other public buildings in the two provincial capitals, Quetta and Peshawar.

Turks place candidate under house arrest

NICOSIA (UPI). — Dr. Ahmet Berberoglu, one of two Turkish candidates for the vice-presidency of Cyprus, and two of his aides were placed under house arrest, Turkish-Cypriot sources said yesterday.

The measure was taken by the administration of the Turkish sector in Cyprus after Berberoglu failed to comply with a Turkish government request to withdraw from Sunday's vice-presidential elections, the sources said.

Berberoglu, a doctor from Limassol, was arrested on Wednesday by Turkish-Cypriot police as he was leaving Nicosia's Turkish sector for the airport to catch a flight to Ankara, the sources said.

CABLES IN BRIEF

OISTRAKH. — The famed Soviet violinist, David Oistrakh, has been ordered to take a three-week rest after suffering a mild heart attack, doctors said in Paris. Oistrakh was taken ill on Sunday night during a concert tour of France.

PRISONERS. — A two-day operation for the exchange of prisoners captured during border fighting last September between the two Yemens ended on Wednesday at the North Yemen frontier town of Karsh. It was officially announced in Aden. The number of prisoners was not given.

Cairo gov't may give in to student demands

CAIRO (Reuters). — Riot police and student demonstrators clashed for the fifth day running near Cairo University yesterday — but the encounter was desultory and there were indications that the students may have won some concessions from the government.

The Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only political party, was reported studying the students' grievances, and these grievances were aired for the first time by Cairo newspapers.

Political commentators took this as a sign the government was prepared to release some of the students held in custody and deal openly with student complaints.

Several hundred students yesterday marched off the campus of Cairo University as they have for the past four days, and faced police near an important intersection leading to a main bridge across the Nile river.

But after some half-hearted stone-throwing by the students, the police moved forward and pushed them back to the main campus gates.

The students are protesting the arrest of 120 students and other persons arrested during student riots at the end of the year. They also want freedom on the campus, freedom from press censorship and replacement of disciplinary councils in universities by democratically-elected student bodies.

Contacts have been held over the past 24 hours between student representatives, university authorities and leaders of the A.S.U. to study peace terms and the introduction of democratic practices inside the campus.

Wrong time for U.K. arms deal with Arabs - Eban

By DAVID LENNON

JERUSALEM Post Correspondent

LONDON. — Britain should not give new armaments to Egypt or Libya at a time when there are signs that the Arabs are putting aside the military option, Foreign Minister Abba Eban said here yesterday.

He made this message clear to Lord Balfour, Minister of State at the Foreign Office, when he was Mr. Eban's luncheon guest yesterday, and also stated the same opinion at a J.P.A. dinner on Wednesday.

Although his visit is mainly concerned with fund raising, Mr. Eban sought the meeting with the number two at the Foreign Office in the absence of Foreign Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, who is in Liberia, to review the general situation in Jordan and Egypt, and to make clear Israel's desire for British support over the E.E.C. deal.

King Hussein's statements in New York, which gained wide publicity here, and the forthcoming visit of Hafez Ismail, Egyptian President Sadat's national security adviser, were discussed at some length at the luncheon. Israeli sources here are trying to play down the significance of Ismail's visit, at least while Mr. Eban is in Britain.

Speaking last night at the J.P.A. dinner, Mr. Eban commented that he had heard that an Egyptian diplomat is going around the world. "I don't want to deny him the pleasures of world tourism, but it would be better if they people look to Jerusalem, if they want a change," he commented.

Despite these efforts to minimize the importance of Ismail's visit, British Prime Minister Edward Heath and Sir Alec will both meet the Egyptian diplomat next week. Observers here believe that Ismail now Soviet agreement in Moscow last week for a counter peace move, pre-empting the U.S. initiative, and will now seek European backing for it. The London visit is the first stage of this drive.

On arms, Lord Balfour reassured Mr. Eban that despite reports that the arms deal with Egypt is reaching the firm orders stage, and that Libya is seeking a $100m. arms deal, the British attitude remains unchanged. Britain will only sell arms to the Middle East which could not affect the balance of power in the region.

Killed pig, so wedding official, chief's wife says

JAKARTA (UPI). — Mrs. Wyn Sargent, the American woman who married the chief of a West Irianese native tribe, said the marriage was official as soon as she slaughtered a pig.

However, that was as official as the marriage ever got, a government source said on Wednesday.

The source said Mrs. Sargent was "evicted" from the island because she would not consummate her marriage to Chief Obahorok, who in turn was angered by her repeated refusal to grant him his marital rights.

Mrs. Sargent granted a brief interview to reporters Wednesday after immigration officials ordered her to leave the country by tomorrow.

She confirmed her marriage to Chief Obahorok, who rules in the nearby inaccessible Balam valley. "I am married, or I suppose I am," she said on Wednesday. "As far as I know, when you have killed one pig you are married."

Spokesmen at immigration headquarters and at the U.S. embassy said the only reason Mrs. Sargent had given for her stay in West Irian was to do research for a book she intended to write. But they said she has no academic credentials as an anthropologist, and has never claimed any.

Greeks draft students who boycott classes

ATHENS (Reuters). — Thirty-seven university students who boycotted classes and persuaded others to do so have been called up for military service, the Defence Ministry announced yesterday.

An official decree cancelled a call-up deferred the students had been granted to allow them to complete studies. The decision was taken in accordance with recent legislation passed by the army-backed government to check student unrest.

Fifty students of Athens Polytechnic Engineering School were arrested on Wednesday following a clash between riot police and pupils demonstrating outside a teachers' meeting.

The clashes occurred when some 800 students, assembled in the college courtyard, shouted political slogans and refused to disperse peacefully. They called for a return to democracy.

The Greeks have charged the Communists are behind the demonstrations.

Western unity on troop talks 'falls apart'

BRUSSELS (UPI). — The unified Western approach to East-West talks on troop reductions has fallen apart and the allies are trying to work out a new one, Western sources said yesterday.

"Right now, we've got 15 countries here and 15 different ideas," a diplomat at Nato headquarters here said.

The sources said Nato hopes to have new proposals ready within a week, so they can be presented to Soviet negotiators in Vienna, where exploratory talks on mutual and balance force reductions have been stalled since January 31.

The Western plans came unstuck in the face of Soviet counter-proposals in Vienna that would change the entire concept of the talks, the sources said. The problem now, they said, is to meet these counterproposals and get the talks going.

One proposal, they said, would remove Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg from the list of participants in the talks. This was floated tentatively by Soviet negotiators in Vienna and is under consideration by Nato.

This was said to be one of many suggestions discussed Wednesday by the Nato Council. The issues are under study in Nato capitals now and will be discussed again at the next council meeting, they said.

The Soviet Union has proposed that Hungary be removed from the participants. This would change the whole Western concept of the talks, which Nato sees as a mutual pullback of troops in central Europe — an area encompassing the two Germanys, Hungary, Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Benelux countries.

AVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (Reuters) — Twenty American prisoners of war released by the North Vietnamese arrived here yesterday from Clark Air Base in the Philippines. It was the first large group of ex-prisoners to return since the first man off the plane here, Navy Captain Jeremiah Denton, was also first to step down at the base.

During some of our darker days, Captain Denton said in speech to the waiting crowd, there were occasions when we tried to signal to indicate peace with our war.

That signal was a soft whistling. "California Here I Come."

MRS. GANDHI'S POLICIES FACE NEW CHALLENGES

By TREVOR DEIBERGER

NEW DELHI — Political and economic uneasiness haunt India. For the first time in 1968, doubt and despondency swirl in the capital. But at the same time, the Congress Party, which has ruled India since 1947, is enjoying a new lease of life. The party's policies are being re-examined, and its leadership is being reshaped.

The biggest threat comes from the Congress pressure groups working behind the scenes and enjoying the support of the former party bosses in the states when Mrs. Gandhi has downgraded in order to strengthen her own hand.

These bosses want to be spotted for a fight. They want to be seen as a counterforce of state and district party leaders called here region or what spokesman of the government prefer to call a "circle" capital.

prisoners released

QUANG TRI, Vietnam. — One hundred and seventy-five Communist prisoners were released here yesterday after up to a decade of imprisonment.

A number of them were due to be freed a year or more ago but at that time North Vietnam refused to accept them.

All were sick or disabled. The amputees were helped by their more healthy comrades as they walked 800 metres to the bank of the Thanh-Nhan River.

A flotilla of U.S. and South Vietnamese army boats waited at the river's edge for the 300-yard trip across the swift flowing river.

But when the prisoners saw that the boats had been equipped with South Vietnam's flag, they refused to climb aboard.

For 20 minutes, true supervisors and captors argued in vain. Then a Vietnamese officer was brought across from the other side of the river to tell them to disregard the government flags on the boats and on poles along the landing site.

As the boats pulled away, the prisoners stripped off their maroon prison pyjamas, their sandals, their bandages, their slings, and their crutches and hurled them into the river.

South Vietnam also yesterday released 904 women captured while serving with the Vietcong as combatants and porters during the Vietnam fighting.

Ranging from teenagers to middle-aged, the women were flown from a camp at Con Tho in the Mekong Delta to Loc Ninh, the Communist-controlled town near the Cambodian border, where they were turned over to Vietcong troops.

At Con Tho, they held towels over their heads and faces to shield them from photographers trying to take pictures from a distance. Reporters were not allowed to talk to them.

The women were the first female prisoners to be freed in the current exchanges of prisoners of war. They were all captured in combat. Several thousand other women prisoners are still interned in camps throughout South Vietnam. (AP, Reuters, UPI)

Cambodia envoy due here soon

By DAVID LANDAU
Jerusalem Post Diplomatic Correspondent

Cambodia's first ambassador-designate to Israel will be arriving in Jerusalem within a few weeks, having ended his mission as the Phnom Penh Government's key contact man with the local Khmer Rouge Communist group, Cambodia established an embassy in Jerusalem last September, but it has been run since then by the Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Ben Sone, because the Government could not release the ambassador-designate, Mr. Ede Kinsan, from his work at home.

Mr. Kinsan, a former ambassador to Laos, is serving as Deputy Minister of Interior. A previous spell as governor of the North-Eastern province left him with numerous associations among the Khmer Rouge leaders, and he is putting them to use in the "contacts" — Phnom Penh refuses to call them negotiations — between the Communists and the Government.

Cambodian ruler Lon Nol hopes to woo the indigenous Khmer Rouge Communists into an alignment with his government so as to isolate the invading North Vietnamese and Vietcong Communists who have been battling Government troops in several parts of the country.

Whether the invaders do eventually withdraw depends, according to most observers, on the arrangements arrived at by Prof. Henry Kissinger and the Chinese leaders during their current meetings in Peking. By all accounts, a cease-fire agreement is about to be signed in Laos, and this will leave Cambodia as the next, and last, theatre where the conflict has to be resolved. The Cambodian army itself is quite incapable of driving out the invaders, and the U.S. has to date been parsimonious in supplying sufficient quantities of arms and equipment. Washington is unlikely to agree to a return of the Chinese-backed Prince Sihanouk to power in Phnom Penh, and the Chinese for their part will probably demand Lon Nol's ouster if they are to agree to any form of compromise, neutralist government.

In point of fact a cessation of hostilities in Cambodia (and Laos) was implied in the Vietnam cease-fire agreement signed in Paris last month. The signatories — the U.S., Saigon, Hanoi and the Vietcong — undertook to "strictly observe the Geneva accords of 1954 on Cambodia... which recognized the fundamental national rights of the Cambodian people to independence, sovereignty, and territorial unity and integrity... The parties will respect the neutrality of Cambodia and Laos."

to break off diplomatic relations with Israel. (The second thing was to break with the U.S.)

The present regime in Phnom Penh has sought to redress the balance of reciprocity in relations with Israel (Israel has had an embassy in Cambodia for many years) in part to counter demonstratively Prince Sihanouk's hostility. As President, Sihanouk had never permitted Cambodia's non-resident ambassador to Israel to present his credentials in Jerusalem. He did, however, accept and welcome the aid projects of Israeli agronomists and irrigation experts in the Mekong Delta region.

The Charge d'Affaires, Mr. Sone, who will concentrate on economic matters when Ambassador Kinsan eventually arrives, told The Jerusalem Post this week that he hopes to develop Cambodian timber exports to Israel. At present there is almost no trade between the two countries. Mr. Sone hopes Cambodia's timber, hardwoods and mahogany, shipped to Israel through the port of Eilat, will be able to compete with West African timber, which currently comprises the bulk of Israel's wood imports.

Jordan blames Israel for Aksa wall collapse

UNITED NATIONS (AP). — Jordanian ambassador Abdul Hamid Sharaf charged on Wednesday that Israeli authorities had caused the recent collapse of an inside wall of Al Aksa mosque in the Old City of Jerusalem with "archaeological excavations."

In a letter to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, he demanded that they "halt forthwith all their destructive physical activities in and around the Holy Places."

Israeli ambassador Yosef Tekoaht retorted that the wall "came down on February 11 while Arab workers employed by the Moslem Waqf authorities were digging foundations for new marble pillars brought recently from Rome." Waqf land is land devoted to charitable purposes.

In a press statement, Tekoaht added that the Supreme Moslem Council had said that the collapse had been anticipated, that precautionary measures had been taken, and that the event would not slow down work.

He accused the Jordanian government of "gratuitous and vicious anti-Israeli propaganda" and "baseless falsehoods and distortions."

'Ismail to meet Kissinger in Paris'

BEIRUT (UPI). — Egyptian envoy Hafez Ismail, whom President Anwar Sadat has described as "my Kissinger," may meet the real Henry Kissinger in Paris later this month, the Beirut newspaper "Al-Mohawir" said yesterday.

The pro-Cairo newspaper quoted diplomatic sources as saying Ismail planned to go to Paris following his visit to London next week for talks with British leaders. It said Kissinger was expected to be in Paris at that time.

'MYSTERY MAN' OF THE FRENCH RESISTANCE

By SASHA SEDAN

JERUSALEM POST REPORTER
"MYSTEROUS CHARLES," the man whose identity the Germans could never discover, is in Jerusalem to turn over to Yad Vashem forged documents and other valuable records from his work as a French Resistance leader in World War II.

Charles and his wife Eve were involved in the capture of numerous collaborators during the war, the sabotaging of a war material factory and the accurate bombing of eight locomotives — aside from the information and propaganda network they operated for four years inside a supposedly conquered and subdued France.

"Mysterious Charles" counts the Croix de Guerre among his eight war decorations. Today he is a retired businessman. Charles Wittenberg of Toronto, a soft-spoken, slender man with gray hair and glasses, he does not give the impression of an underground spy.
Perhaps that's why he was so successful.

On the subject of Jewish resistance, he is vehement: "Whenever the Jewish people fought back, they saved a large portion of the community."

Single bullet

His own first taste of fighting back came when he was a boy in the small Polish town of Peshitki.
"I remember how Polish hoodlums burned numerous stores and houses and killed Jews. One single bullet from a Jewish window dispersed the attackers. A yeshiva bocher with a shotgun saved the Jewish community."

"Unfortunately, in 1940, we didn't have many yeshiva students with shotguns. The large majority of Jews in France were too assimilated, too absorbed in business. There was prosperity and when the hostile German soldiers were eager to buy whatever they could get, there were many Jews who sold to them on the black market."

In 1941, Charles and Eve Wittenberg, were living in Lens in the Pas de Calais near the Belgian border. Getting wind of a German plan to have all Jews registered, they pleaded in vain with the Jewish community's leaders to encourage people to leave for free zones and to avoid registration as much as possible. But that summer the Jews of Lens lined up at the Town Hall, "showing each other to get registered first so that they could quickly return to their businesses."

In June 1942, Wittenberg recalls, there was a second registration of Jews who within the next two months were deported to Auschwitz — except those with French nationality and people like the Wittenbergs, who had never registered.

The couple were already involved in underground activities, reporting troop movements and other information gathered from contacts with German officers. Wittenberg got a job in a foundry in a town near Arras as "camouflage," but in May, 1942, four inspectors from the Vichy police, "a special division of the Gestapo," came to the couple's apartment to arrest Wittenberg. In a search they found an envelope which contained incriminating Resistance documents. Mrs. Wittenberg whispered to the officer who held the envelope not to open it, as it contained her love letters from another man. The trick worked and Wittenberg was released in under a week through "his wife's supreme efforts" and with the aid of a "known collaborator" who was actually a member of the underground.

The couple were transferred to Hellemmes-Lille, where a priest told them a town factory contained eight locomotives ready to be deli-ivered to the Germans. Wittenberg drew a map which was passed to England. A few days later the R.A.F. bombed and destroyed the entire factory wing holding the locomotives.

The couple were moved again south to the department of Tarnet-Garonne and took up new names, using forged documents. There they set up a propaganda centre and a forgery operation: "We constructed and supplied over 50,000 'official' documents."

"Hundreds of photographs were sent to us by clergymen, for us to establish identification cards and all other necessary papers. Through the efforts of these same clergymen, Jews were protected and housed in monasteries, hospitals, orphanages and farms."

No obstacle

German field gendarmes had lists of authorized drivers in the area, whose special permit forms were changed frequently. But this was no obstacle to the Wittenbergs: "We forged the German permits as well."

Wittenberg worked with other resistance members on the construction of a factory likely to be used for producing reinforced cement and chemicals for the German war machine. He and co-workers saw to it that railway cars with strong bricks were derailed and "blown" for the factory walls. The factory never built to full capacity.

"Mysterious Charles" also took part in the arrest of 25 "traitors," spies and collaborators. But in less dramatic resistance work, he and his wife were daily in the threat of discovery and death. It was the time Mrs. Wittenberg was wounded with a case of plastic pipes on a bus since there was no other way to transport her.

When a German soldier boarded the bus and found not a single seat, the driver advised him to get on Mrs. Wittenberg's box. "Don't worry, there are no eggs in the box.
It isn't breakable," he said.

It was about this time that the Wittenbergs received his nickname, French colonel heard of the man's resistance exploits of one man know only as Charles. Intrigued, colonel asked, "Who is this mysterious Charles?" The name was the Germans sought him, but though he passed through their hands under more than a dozen aliases, they never found out who whom they were dealing.

ENGLAND BACK ON TARGET

ENGLAND'S forwards got back on the goal-scoring trail again Wednesday night with a 5-0 victory over Scotland, their oldest rivals, in a Scottish Centenary Celebration Match at Glasgow's Hampden Park.

After struggling through their last eight games at only a goal a match, the English squad were right back on target in a display which augurs well for the stiff World Cup campaign which lies ahead.

The new-look England team shattered Scotland with a burst of three goals in the first 15 minutes.
The Scottish defence was left flat-footed by England's pile-driving urgency in front of goal right from the fifth minute when Scottish defender Peter Lorimer, running back in an attempt to head off an Allan Clarke shot, stuck out a foot and put the ball in his own net.

In the 12th minute Clarke shot England into a 2-0 lead after Mike Channon had beaten the Scottish defence with a lofted through ball and three minutes later Channon's powerful drive went in off the bar to make it three.

The rejuvenated England team continued to mount repeated attacks and several further scoring attempts went narrowly wide during the first half.

Martin Chivers, struggling to retain his place in the England team after several unconvincing performances, scored the fourth in the 76th minute and Clarke made it 5-0 nine minutes later.

England captain Bobby Moore, playing in his 100th international, maintained cool control in defence, despite several spirited Scottish raids in the second half.

Although the ex-champion landed sharper punches, he failed to hurt his opponent.

There were no knockdowns but each fighter drove the other back on several occasions.

All, 31, weighed 217 1/2 pounds as he won his 41st fight in 42 outings.
Bugner, the Hungarian-born battener from London, suffered only his fifth loss. He weighed in at 219.

Few in the United States thought the European champion would put up as determined a showing and so frequently carry the fight to All.
But in the first round Bugner showed a quick, sharp jab and throughout the fight his mauling rushes kept All from setting up a regulated attack. After the fight a subdued Muhammad Ali hinted that he would be retiring within two years and predicted that Bugner would eventually hold the world heavyweight crown.

With a crowd of 5,700, including at least 1,500 from England, Bugner fought sometimes clumsily but always aggressively against All.

Bugner takes a blow from All.

MODERN MAN'S FIGHT AGAINST NOISE POLLUTION

By ROBERT MCKINNON

LONDON (UPI) — Noise has become a nuisance since the 1950s, but only in recent years has it come to be regarded as a form of pollution. There are two reasons for this. First, with the advent of modern life, we are getting more and more noise all the time. Secondly, we now know more about noise from a scientific standpoint. We know how it is caused and how it can be controlled, and also why we find certain sounds tolerable or pleasant, and others make us deaf.

As far as industry is concerned, the latest view is that noise is a bad for people whose jobs need intense concentration. On the other hand, a little noise is thought to help in the case of people whose work is boring and repetitive or who work in offices that are otherwise too quiet. In jobs, background noise is thought to maintain a certain level of nervous tension, and this is supposed to be good for work.

British survey
Too much noise is always harmful, of course, whether it comes from a pop group, a symphony orchestra, a pneumatic drill or a factory. A survey carried out among industrial workers showed, for example, that after 20 years of their trade, 75 per cent of men, 60 per cent of women, 50 per cent of men, 40 per cent of women, 30 per cent of men, 20 per cent of women, 10 per cent of men, 0 per cent of women were unable to hear normal speech at more than 10 metres from each ear. In a recent context, tests carried out in American high schools have revealed definite impairment in hearing among most children exposed to long periods to pop music in

'Ultra-modern' theatre group

Nothing to be alarmed about. Just part of a set in a play being staged by a new experimental theatre.

Jerusalem Post Correspondent

TEL AVIV. — The basement of the "Habimah" Theatre here, normally used as a parking place, is to house the new experimental theatre group. The group, which is to be called "The Basement", will present ultra-modern plays performed by Habimah actors. The basement will seat 100 people at most.

The basement is a brain-child of Mrs. Pina Gaby, who joined Habimah several years ago. The first play she has chosen is Amnon Zakov's "To Die of Laughter or the Hangman's Love". The play is not at all morbid, although the sets do include a skeleton.

Two other plays on schedule are "The Night of the Murderers", by the Cuban Jose Triana, directed by Dan Rosen of the Tel Aviv University; and "Bushman and Lena", by the South African author Athol Fugard, directed by Helena Kohut-Hausman, a newcomer from England.

HUSSEIN STARTS DEBATE

KING Hussein's article in the London "Times" last week has generated a lively correspondence in the paper's "Letters to the Editor" column.

One of the first letters came jointly from Lord Goodman, Sir Marcus Sieff and Sir Sigmund G. Warburg. "Speaking only for ourselves as British Jews," they wrote, "we would like to record the deep impact made on us by King Hussein's article." If, as Hussein wrote, Jordan and Egypt accept the presence of Israel behind secure and recognized borders then "there would appear to be no reason why these countries should not sit down with Israel at the negotiating table."

This drew a response from the Egyptian charge d'affaires in London, Mr. Samir Ahmed, who pointed out that while Sadat had said he was willing to sit down and talk, Israel had asserted that she would not withdraw from occupied territory, thus refusing to comply with Resolution 242. "Would it be too much to ask of Lord Goodman, Sir Marcus and Sir Sigmund for them to use their great influence and friendship with the leaders of Israel so that Israel might issue the long-awaited declaration saying that she has no territorial designs on Egyptian Sinai?"

"Surely the time is long past for this kind of semantic shadow boxing," responded Israel Ambassador Michael Comay a couple of days later.

Pointing out that it must be clear by now that Israel withdrawal will only come about in the context of a negotiated settlement, Comay wrote that he imagines the reaction of a reader to Ahmed's letter must be: "If you are willing to talk, get on with it."

A COMEDIAN on British television gave a list of "the best favours" you can do for people of different nationalities. He suggested that the best favour you can do for

DAVID LENNON'S LONDON Letter

An Israeli is to open his letters for him, or better still, get an Arab to open it for him.

THE Israel Citrus Marketing Board recently gave a press conference and luncheon here to promote the use of grapefruit as an aid to dieting. The fruit was liberal provided as both a food and a drink. What was omitted for some reason, was whiskey, brandy, gin or any of the beverages normally present in abundance on such occasions.

For this error the Board paid dearly. The following day the national papers all appeared with critical articles about the press conference or the preparation of the product. However, another Israel product came in for the highest praise in a British paper. The Israel Philharmonic Orchestra was described as one of the world's best in an article on Zubin Mehta in the "Times" this week.

Commenting on the I.P.O., Mehta notes that the musicians in Israel were him to be the authority to make the decisions for them. This, he said, was the opposite of the attitude of the Los Angeles Orchestra where he has been director for the past 12 years.

"To Israel they used almost to ignore the twentieth century but now I make it a policy not only to invite Israeli artists to appear with the orchestra, but also to play Israeli music, at least five or six works in a season."

"They have three different types of composers: the Europeans, the Israeli "Bartoks" — the ones experimenting with their folk music — and the avant-garde, who are trying to keep up with all the latest European trends."

Commenting on other differences between the two orchestras, Mehta said the Israelis are strong on their string playing. "We also have some marvelous soloists in the wind and brass sections." Almost inevitably, he adds that "these two departments aren't probably as high on music discipline as their counterparts in Los Angeles..."

LAST October the Jewish National Fund announced a drive to raise funds for the planting of a Royal forest in Israel to mark the silver wedding anniversary of Queen Elizabeth. Now it has been announced that Prince Philip will attend a dinner at the London Guildhall being given by the J.N.F. on May 7 when the commemorative volume containing the names of all the donors to the forest will be presented to the Prince.

May 7 this year coincides with Israel's 25th Independence Day.

Biggest U.S. haul of pot found in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The largest shipment of marijuana seized in U.S. history — an estimated eight tons — was found on Wednesday when Federal agents raided a Mexican freighter in Los Angeles harbour.

U.S. customs special agent Mel Johnson said the captain of the 457-m Don Miguel was detained along with 13 crewmen and five men from an ocean-going tug that accompanied the ship to Los Angeles.

Johnson said the manifest listed 384 crates of coffee but a sampling of the cargo indicated the crates contained marijuana.

Remarkable pianist

The Israel Philharmonic Orchestra, subscription concert No. 6. Conductor: Sviatoslav Knoshevich; soloist: Martha Argerich, piano. (Tel Aviv, Israel Auditorium, February 13) Muscovitzky: Prelude to the Opera. "Khovanshina"; Tchaikovsky: Piano Concerto No. 1; Stravinsky: Firebird.

THIS concert was completely dominated by the extraordinary personality of the soloist, Martha Argerich. Her performance of the Tchaikovsky concerto was overwhelming. Her incredible physical control over the instrument allows her an immense breadth of conception, a sprung-steel fortissimo, fantastic octave playing chords of orchestral dimensions and an amazing variety of nuance. All these components are stimulated by a flowering musical imagination and an unabating temperament.

Yet what could have become a sensational performance seriously lacked artistic integrity due to grave shortcomings in the accompaniment. It is undoubtedly no easy task to accompany Miss Argerich. Her playing is often erratic and unpredictable. Yet even when taking into consideration these factors, Mr. Knoshevich's handling of the orchestral part seemed inadequate. He had great difficulty in adapting himself to her changes of tempo, the wind section seemed completely helpless and even balance often left much to be desired.

Finally one cannot refrain from touching again upon the painful theme of programming. With all my admiration for Miss Argerich's splendid accomplishment I think the yearly repetition of the Tchaikovsky concerto simply intolerable. As to Stravinsky, well, those responsible for I.P.O. programmes need not be told that Stravinsky has written, in his long life, in addition to Firebird, Petrushka, Sacre, and the two Symphonies, a few other not too bad pieces of music.

BENJAMIN BAR-AM

..... and in Israel GOING DEAF ON DIZENGOFF

By SARAH HONIG Jerusalem Post Reporter

TEL AVIV. — The hearing of store owners and residents of much busy Tel Aviv streets as Dizengoff, Ben Yehuda, Yehuda Hamacabee and Allenby is constantly getting worse, although the people themselves may not know it. The same is true of those who work or live in any of the main streets of the country's other large cities. The cause is too much noise. The noise level on these streets has increased in the last few years, that anyone exposed to it for more than three to four hours daily is bound to be affected, says Mr. David Sivan, spokesman for Malra, the Society for the Prevention of Noise and Air Pollution.

This does not mean that these people are actually going deaf. Their hearing loss is gradual. They can still enjoy music but the sounds reaching them are duller and less distinct. Noise literally inflicts injuries on people, but without causing pain, Mr. Sivan told The Jerusalem Post.

Mr. Sivan said he was not able to compare the situation in Israel with that in other countries because the whole study of the effect of noise on people was only about 10 years old, and there was no adequate comparative data. "But the situation here is bad," he asserts. He qualifies this statement, however, by saying that this view depends on whom you ask.

Noise also affects people subjectively. Some are more affected than others, depending on their personality and state of mind at a certain moment. "People from Western countries are psychologically more sensitive to noise than others, and tests have shown that generally the higher the person's education the greater is his irritability potential to noise."

"It seems that there is a great effort to control noise in France and Britain, for example, than here. In America the situation varies from area to area. In Israel we are at all times and purposes part of the Levant when it comes to this," Mr. Sivan says.

He notes that we have plenty of regulations to prevent excessive noise, but they are all in the books, and are not being enforced.

Added to the Kanowitz anti-pollution law in 1966 after a Malra-sponsored court action clearly forbade drivers from blowing car horns unnecessarily in residential neighbourhoods, from engaging in noise-generating repair work in apartment buildings, and from operating construction machinery in residential areas during those hours. There were other restrictions too.

A big problem, says Mr. Sivan, is that often people don't want to quarrel with their neighbours, "so if the child next door decides to practice his trumpet at a time when he should be sound asleep, they just grind their teeth and bear it. People think they can get used to noise, not realizing that it affects their whole organism. At every picnic area you go to, on a Saturday you can hear several transistors playing loudly, often tuned to different stations — and people don't seem to mind."

Worse still, when people did complain, the duty policeman was likely to regard the complaint as "a finicky mob and to do nothing. The police simply did not see the importance of the problem, and there was no pressure of public opinion."

When a complaint is acted upon, the result is not very encouraging, Mr. Sivan says. Once he submitted a complaint against a bus driver who was blowing his horn in front of the court building and refused to stop. The driver was fined 110 "hardly deterrent."

Mr. Sivan points out that humans are not the only victims of noise pollution in Israel. He says that Malra has received complaints from farmers living near airports and especially in the Lod area, that everytime a jet dashes overhead their cattle panic.

Federmann to build in Haifa skyline

Jerusalem Post Reporter

HAIFA. — The Federmann enterprise will start building a new complex on the Mt. Carmel skyline April, Mr. Yehuda Federmann announced on Wednesday. He said that the 117,000 sq. m. project, which took 12 years to get the required licenses, will include a 340-room hotel, two dwellings with 180 flats and a 1,000-sq. m. modern shopping centre.

Speaking to a meeting of the Public Relations Association, Mr. Federmann proposed the founding of an independent Haifa development company. "Not all those who have made a lot of money in Haifa as well as those who have the city's interests at heart, join in investing in the company," he said. He pledged the technical know-how of the Federmann enterprise to work out viable investments in the industrial field and said he was willing to stand at the head of the enterprise and see it through to success.

"There is no purpose in merely complaining about Haifa remaining behind," he said. "The residents themselves have no initiative they can't expect it from the municipality," he said.
